Friends of Lancaster County

We invite you to join other Lancaster County residents working to preserve the county's rural, environmental, and historic character. We do this by participating in local government and encouraging other residents to do the same.

Who We Are and What We Are Doing

Friends of Lancaster County (FOLC) is an outgrowth of concern displayed by hundreds of residents who attended a Lancaster County Planning Commission public hearing on planned unit development (PUD) early in 2005. From that nucleus, a steering committee comprised of Lancaster County residents got together and created a new advocacy organization. We are a limited liability company (LLC), and a 501(c)(4) Social Welfare Organization.

To achieve our purposes, representatives from FOLC attend Lancaster County supervisor and planning commission meetings to encourage responsible decision-making by government officials. Current emphasis is being placed on enhancing the county-wide Comprehensive Plan and advocating 100 percent compliance with the Chesapeake Bay Preservation Act.

In short, we are working to ensure that Lancaster County continues to be a wonderful place in which to live!
